CONGRESS MAY EXTEND BUDGET

than give the Senate an opportunity to recede on this amendment, Senator Smith refuses to offer them an opportunity to express themselves upon the remaining items—Section 3 and the Borland amendment—although he has been assured that a definite affirmative vote by the Senate on these two items may have a very direct influence upon the House conferees.

Position of House Conferees.

The House conferees take the position that they have received definite instructions by votes of the House on each of the three items in dispute. In the face of these instructions, they will not ask the House to recede on any of them unless the Senate demands it through separate votes on each item. Hitherto the vote in the Senate has been on the three items en bloc.

Senator Smith has not asked for a conference since the last disagreement and the House conferees are about ready to let the bill fall rather than worry any more over it. If the bill fails the District will operate under the law of 1913-14 and a great many important advances provided under the new bill will be impossible.

A CHARMING HOME.

How Mrs. Daniels Has Brought Glimpse of South Into Capital.

When Mrs. Daniels came from Raleigh, N. C., a few months ago to take her place in Washington social life as one of the Cabinet hostesses, says the Atlanta Journal, she brought with her four interesting young sons and their old colored mammy.

Also a few choice pieces of mahogany from her childhood home at Raleigh; her family servants, and her recipe for bean biscuit, an indispensable article of food on the table of Southern tables.

Consequently, the home of Secretary and Mrs. Daniels at the Capital is typically Southern in many respects.

Since her husband became a member of President Wilson's Cabinet, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, has become one of the best loved women in Washington.

Though she keeps up all her social engagements and takes excellent care of her four fine boys, Mrs. Daniels finds time, with her husband, to keep in touch with the work they are both interested in at their home town, Raleigh.

This work is in two hospitals: one for the whites and one for the negroes.

Secretary and Mrs. Daniels save and equipped a children's ward in both buildings. The ward for the white children is a memorial for the young daughter, Adelaide, whom they lost some years ago.

When the hospital for negroes was built in Raleigh, it occurred to Mrs. Daniels that she would like to equip the children's ward with the same kind of furniture as the faithful services of Sophy Higgins, the old mammy who had nursed all of their children and who is today in the service of the Daniels family at Single Oak.

This was done, to the pride and delight of the old servant.

The four Daniels boys are great favorites in Washington.

Fortune hidden 40 years.

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—Lost for more than forty years, a bond was found at $100,000, belonging to the estate of the late John G. Shelton, have been found today. The certificates were discovered in an old trunk by Miss Juanita Reeves, granddaughter of the man who purchased them, and the find was accidental.

Miss Reeves discovered the papers in an old Bible, folded and wrinkled. They were dated 1873, the year of the death of John G. Shelton, who died in 1903, will have to be reopened to divide the value of the stocks among the heirs now living. The estate was closed in 1903.

Among the stocks are forty-nine shares of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, issued in 1852; thirty shares of the St. Louis Gas Company, issued in 1842; fifty shares in the Missouri Wine Company, issued in 1833, and Pacific Railway Company tax certificates which were exchanged for stock. Mr. Reeves estimates the value of the stocks at between $15,000 and $100,000.

BEACHY HAS HIS DOUBTS.

Minneapolis, July 9.—Lincoln Beachy, the aviator whose feats in looping the loop and flying upside down are now the sensation of the country, does not believe that Lewis C. Fort will be able to fly across the Atlantic Ocean in the airship America.

"I do not believe that the present machine, the America, is capable of making the flight," said he. "I am convinced that no man can perform this feat. It is one thing to drive a machine for ten or fifteen hours over a state course or over the land. It is an entirely different thing to drive this machine over water of the boundless ocean for that length of time. If the attempt is made it will result in a fiasco or a tragedy."

BOARDERS CAN SUE LANDLADY.

Topeka, Kan., July 9.—Persons who take board without food which "makes their guests, boarders or employees sick" are liable for personal damages, according to a decision of the Kansas Supreme Court.

The decision was handed down today in the case of J. D. Malone, a farm hand, who brought suit for $15,000, alleging that his employer served him with milk which caused him to become ill.

The lower court gave him a verdict for $1,000. This decision was upheld by the Supreme Court.

WANTED—AUTO FOR MULE.

Winsted, Conn., July 9.—That agriculturists are getting the craze for automobiles is indicated by the fact that Roscoe Benjamin, a local automobile merchant, received a letter from a farmer who wanted to swap a fertilizer spreader for a car.

Another wanted to exchange a good mowing machine for a second-hand car, and John Hall, of North Colebrook, offered a mule, sound in every respect, for a modern car, little used.

MAY CENSOR UNDRAPED ACTS.

Paris, July 9.—Two of the principal vaudeville houses in Paris will be subjected to an investigation by a magistrate tomorrow.

It is charged by the public prosecutor that certain undraped scenes shown at these establishments constitute an offense against public decency, and the managers and several actresses will be interrogated.

MRS. FISH'S COUSIN SCORES.

Providence, R. I., July 9.—Frances G. Little, daughter of Lewis Quentin Jones, of Newport, and a cousin of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, was granted a petition for divorce from Julian McCarty Little, of New York and Newport, by Judge Sweeney in Superior Court yesterday.

The suit was undenied, the case being heard on the deposition of Mrs. Little and two other witnesses.

SON OF INVENTOR WINS $10,000.

Lawrence D. Sperry.

Lawrence D. Sperry, son of E. A. Sperry, the inventor of a gyroscope, which is believed will prevent many aeroplane accidents, has won the $10,000 prize offered by the Aero Club of France, photographed on his arrival in New York, July 9. Lawrence Sperry operated his father's machine during the world's best tests in Mineola, L. I., in the next few days.

MRS. WILSON'S COUSIN PENNILESS IN PARIS

Edward May, Young Princeton Graduate, Tries to Give Boxing Shows at Cabarets.

"HAVING TIME OF MY LIFE"

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

Paris, July 9.—Although Edward May, a young Princeton graduate, is Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's cousin and has letters from Secretary of State Bryan and Secretary Tumulty to attest to his worthiness, he is now existing in Paris in a state of penniless vagabondage.

He is seeking an engagement to give pugilistic exhibitions in cabarets; if he fails in this ambition he will offer his services as a dish washer in order to obtain the 20 francs which he needs to pay for the garret in which he sleeps.

May left New York last March, shipping on the Lusitania as a sailor. Since certificates which were exchanged for stock, Mr. Reeves estimates the value of the stocks at between $15,000 and $100,000.

May gained recognition here a few days ago when he boxed three rounds with a French youth at the Casino de la Reine, and he is now working at the same entertainment in the Latin quarter.

He appeared in the ring at the National Sporting Club in London, maintaining his innocence. He is now working at the same entertainment in the Latin quarter.

May says he would not trade his European experience for two year's college study.

"I'm having the time of my life," he declared.

VILLA IS HOST AT BANQUET TO CARRANZA REPRESENTATIVES AT WIND UP OF CONFERENCE.

Torreon, July 9.—The representatives of Carranza who attended the Villa-Carranza reconciliation in this city left for Saltillo this afternoon after a banquet tendered them by Gen. Francisco Villa.

The report of the findings of the conference which was finally corrected to the satisfaction of the delegates and signed at noon today was taken to Saltillo to be submitted to Carranza for his approval.

It was learned from reliable sources that one of the principal features of the document is a provision that all divisions here and Philadelphia, is in distress off Forked River, according to a message received over government wires at 9 o'clock. The steamer's machinery is disabled, but she is in no immediate danger, according to the keeper of the Forked River light station.

LIGHTNING KILLS WRESTLER.

Mount Morris, N. Y., July 9.—Hugh Leonard, wrestling instructor of the New York Athletic Club, was struck by lightning at his farm near Belfast during an electric storm this afternoon and instantly killed. Leonard was forty-six years old and is survived by four daughters.

GEORGETOWN 'BRIDGES' ALL UP IN THE AIR

Now That Two Are Proposed, Commissioners Favor One at Thirty-fourth Street.

Following the revival of the project to build a bridge over the Potomac replacing the Aqueduct Bridge for commercial use, Senator Swanson, chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, yesterday prophesied that the proposed memorial bridge across the river to Arlington, at the foot of G or H street, would also be constructed.

Georgetown merchants whose trade is helped greatly by the traffic across the Aqueduct Bridge were up in arms when the proposal was made to build the new bridge as far down the river as G street.

Now two bridges are proposed and the District Commissioners seem to favor Thirty-fourth street as the approach to the new bridge in Georgetown. This proposal, as set forth in the Carlin bill, abolishes the terminus of the Great Falls line at Thirty-sixth and M streets and provides for a through service to Union Station.

Senator Swanson, who is a member of the Congressional commission appointed last year to make plans for the memorial bridge, expects both of the bridges to be built, although the appropriation for the memorial bridge has not yet been made. The District Commissioners already have reported favorably on the Carlin bill authorizing an appropriation of $1,500,000 for the commercial bridge.

HERE'S A NEW ONE ON JOHN D.

Oil King Has Happy Way of Encouraging Thrift Among Kiddies.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 9.—John D. Rockefeller, who was seventy-two years old yesterday, is still trying to encourage thrift among the younger generation. A good story to illustrate this point came from Pocantico Hills today. During the Rockefeller's walks around the estate he often visits the new stable. Here the children of the employees line up and tip their hats to him.

He asks them to save their pennies and to tip their hats to him. "How do you do, Mr. Rockefeller?"

The oil king is always pleased to see them. He calls them over one by one and as he reaches in his vest pocket he pulls out a nickel and a penny. To each child he says, "There's a penny to spend and a nickel to save."

This is a reversal of Mr. Rockefeller's reply to a school teacher who asked him how to accumulate a fortune. "Save your pennies," he replied. "When a friend asked him about his habit, he said, 'Oh, well, you know children have to have candy now and then.' It puzzles the men on the estate to know how Mr. Rockefeller carries so many nickels and pennies in his vest pocket."

SHE WON'T HAVE TO WORRY.

Little Daughter of Francis Burton Harrison Is a Million Heiress.

New York, July 9.—Eight-year-old Barbara Harrison, daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, governor general of the Philippine Islands, is one of the richest little girls of her age in the United States.

In the accounting of her property, filed in the Supreme Court today by Henry T. Scott, the San Francisco millionaire, and her father, trustees under the will of Mary Barker Harrison, the governor general's wife, who died in 1905, little Miss Harrison is credited with having in her own name $1,315,740, which if she were of age she could handle herself.

The rich little girl is now in the Philippines living with her father and stepmother, who was Miss Mabel Judson, of Brooklyn.

NERVY PORTER A HERO.

Waterloo, Iowa, July 9.—An attempt was made to hold up an Illinois Central passenger train by a bandit one mile east of Epworth, Iowa, last night. The bandit ordered the porter, Henry Bruce, to search the passengers while he stood guard with a drawn revolver.

The porter, however, the bandit's gun and both men fell to the floor of the car. The gun was discharged several times, but no one was injured.

Passengers hearing the struggle gave the signal to stop the train. The bandit freed himself and jumped off, escaping into the woods.

MRS. ANGLE WANTS TO TALK.

Woman Held in Connection with Ballou Murder Impatient.

Stamford, Conn., July 9.—Important developments are looked for at the inquest over the body of Waldo R. Ballou tomorrow afternoon if Dr. Bruce Weaver, the State's expert, is ready to testify as to the analysis he has been making of certain exhibits taken by the State, the coroner will hear his testimony.

It was learned tonight that Mrs. Helen M. Angle is now very desirous of telling her story to the coroner in public and that she is urging her father to get her counsel to consent to this.

THREATEN TO WRECK MINES.

Bellaire Operators Terrorized by Foreigners.

Bellaire, Ohio, July 9.—"Abandon your mines or we'll wreck them. Send your caretakers away or we'll do it for you."

This is the ultimatum of scores of frenzied Italian miners, who, under the supposed influence of Joseph J. Ettor, I. W.

W. agitator, are waging a campaign of havoc among the collieries of this district. Mine operators, terrified by mob threats, have in several instances abandoned their properties, hoping thereby to save the lives of their engine-men and others employed in caretaking capacity. Three of the big coal companies today appealed to Gov. Cox for protection for their property.
